where g is the trend growth rate of the natural rate of output and z captures other determinants of . Note that we assume a one-for-one relationship between the trend growth rate of output and the natural rate of interest, which corresponds to assuming in Eq. ( ). In Laubach and Williams (2003), we estimated this relationship and found a coefficient of close to unity.

METAR is a format for reporting weather information. A METAR weather report is predominantly used by pilots in fulfillment of a part of a pre-flight weather briefing, and by meteorologists, who use aggregated METAR information to assist in weather forecasting. Raw METAR is the most common format in the world for the transmission of observational weather data.

Forecasting is the process of making predictions of the future based on past and present data and most commonly by analysis of trends. A commonplace example might be estimation of some variable of interest at some specified future date. Prediction is a similar, but more general term. Both might refer to formal statistical methods employing time series, cross-sectional or longitudinal data, or ...

To demonstrate the inadequacy of many measures of forecast accuracy, we provide three examples of real data in Fig. 1. These show series N0472 from the M3-competition, 2 monthly log stock returns for the Walt Disney Corporation, and monthly sales of a lubricant product sold in large containers. Note that the Disney return series and the lubricant sales series both include exact zero ...
